That Wonderful
Year 1963-64

Alluring the bright future . . . gratefully guarding the cherished past . . . Quincy College extended its horizons in "That Wonderful Year 1963-'64 and selflessly surrendered the benefits from its ever-giving heart.

Knowledge and truth . . . beauty and spiritual inspiration . . . The book of life reopened with the construction of magnificent edifices to meet its growing needs. From the sparkling modernity of the present arise the future leaders of a free world united in peace and never-ending faith.

Foreword

The oldest Catholic college in the State of Illinois has now moved into the second century of its existence. This pictorial review of the "wonderful year 1963-64" is a tribute to the 101st graduating class.

Continued academic and physical growth have been the keynotes during the year, bringing creativity and excitement.

May this volume be a pleasant reminder of devoted teachers, wonderful friends, and the college that has become part of you.

The Four Arts

It has been emphasized often that the general educational aim of Quincy College is to train its students in the art of living. We realize the position of Quincy College in the modern world, and acclaim its declaration of purpose.

The Art of Self Knowledge . . .

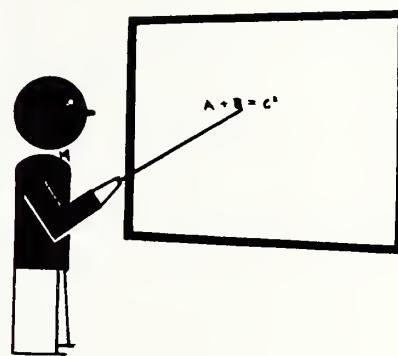

Consists in the cultivation and organization of the intellectual life. It aims not at miscellaneous information, but at truth as a vital and energizing factor in human conduct. In the spirit of Saint Francis, it connotes the idea "to see life steadily and to see it whole."

The Art of Self Expression . . .

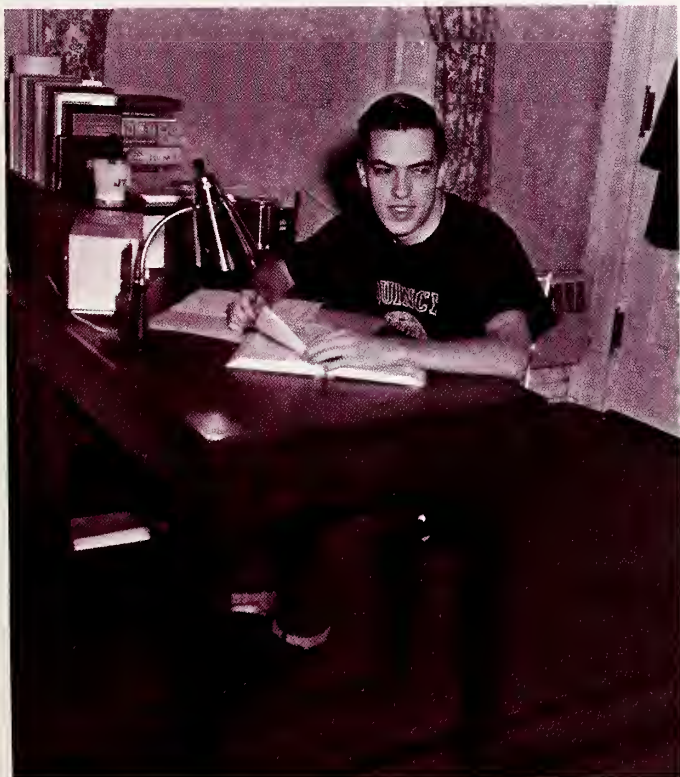

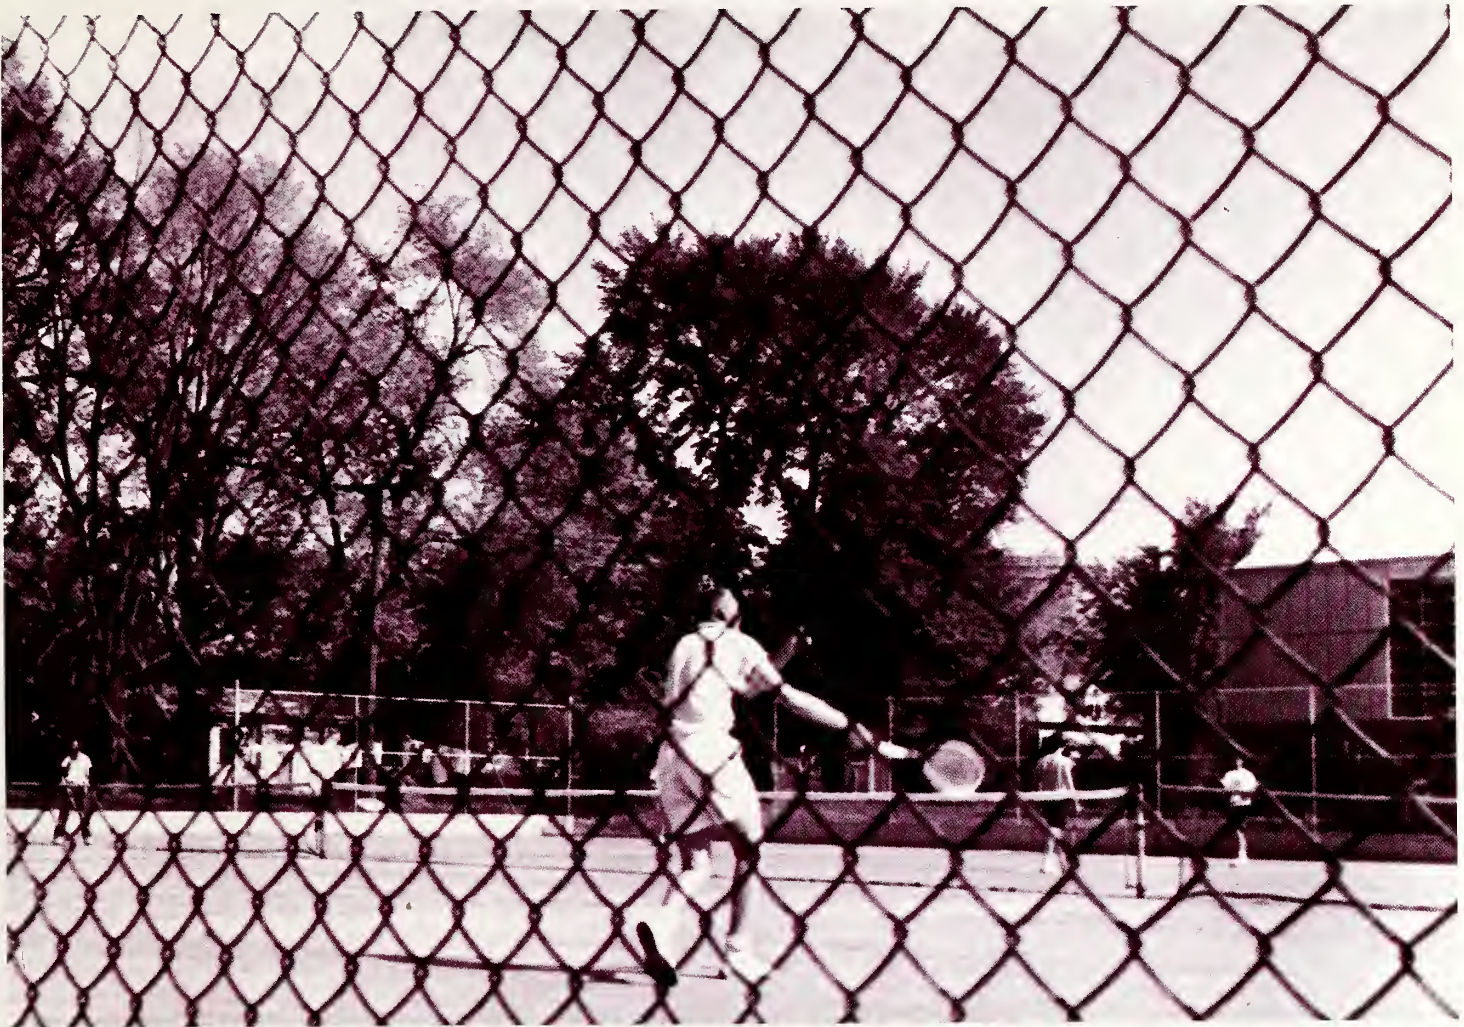

consists in the development of personality, which implies the unfolding of individual traits and talents into patterns likely to reveal one's better self to others. It strives to develop leadership and its purpose is to form the cultured gentleman and gentlewoman.

The Art of Self Support . . .

consists in the application of the arts to the business of gaining a livelihood, part and parcel of the art of living. The outcome is a skilled mind and hand, ready to take part effectively in the world's work after the example of St. Francis, who labored and wished others to do the same.

The Art of Self Control . . .

Consists in the training of the will, the building of character. It makes for consistency of effort to control unworthy urges. Its product is a disciplined mind, schooled to conquer evil with good. Throughout their stay at Quincy College, students learn that self control is a key factor which motivates prominent members of our society.

The Student Senate Promoted General Student Welfare

In its new organizational set-up, the senate implemented the policies of the administration and fostered a wholesome campus morale.

It has acted as the centralizing agency for the student groups on the campus.

Mary Doron, faithful and accurate secretary, kept the student body informed of the doings of the Senate.

James Heintz, treasurer, largely is responsible for the financial success of the Senate.

The Very Reverend Dominic Limacher, O.F.M., M.A., Minister Provincial of the Franciscan Province of the Sacred Heart, and President of the Quincy College Board of Trustees.

The Reverend Gabriel Brinkman, O.F.M., Ph.D., President of Quincy College, and Chairman of the College Administrative Council.

NEW FACULTY HOUSING BUILDING FOR QUINCY COLLEGE READY FOR OCCUPANCY.

RECENTLY CONSTRUCTED CENTENNIAL HALL HOUSES ABOUT 150 WOMEN STUDENTS.

STILLWELL HALL IS A MAJESTIC HOME AWAY FROM HOME FOR UPPER-CLASSMEN.

THE FORMAL PARLOR AT CENTENNIAL HALL ALWAYS HAS A GREAT APPEAL FOR EVERYONE.

Heinen Memorial Gymnasium is located within a few steps of the main building.

Modern Apartments are available for married students and faculty members.

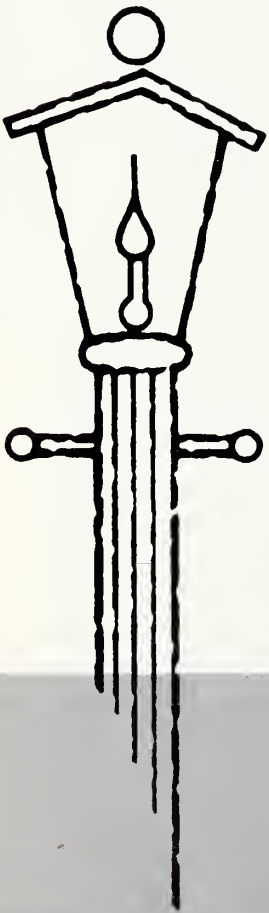

The new five-winged ranch style Augustine Hall houses 200 men students.

Latest addition to the college residences is the Junior-Senior hall for co-eds.

Solano Hall has been a good home for men students through the years.

Senior Fagots

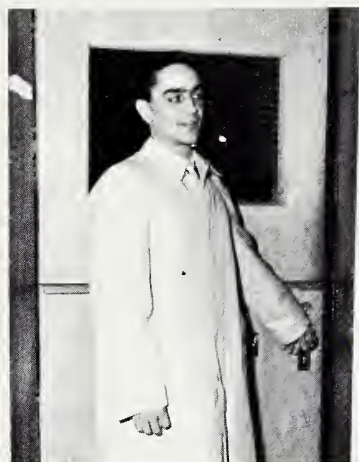

"In the hallowed halls of ivy, every voice will linger there . . ."

The time has come . . . We give our gratitude to those who have helped us taste success . . . We bequeath to the new Freshmen our vigor and vitality; to the Sophomores, our hope and encouragement; to the Juniors, our endurance and fortitude; to the Seniors, our prudence and undying courage in the face of hardship . . . Not goodbye, but rather until we meet again . . .

"And through the years we'll see you in that sweet after-glow."

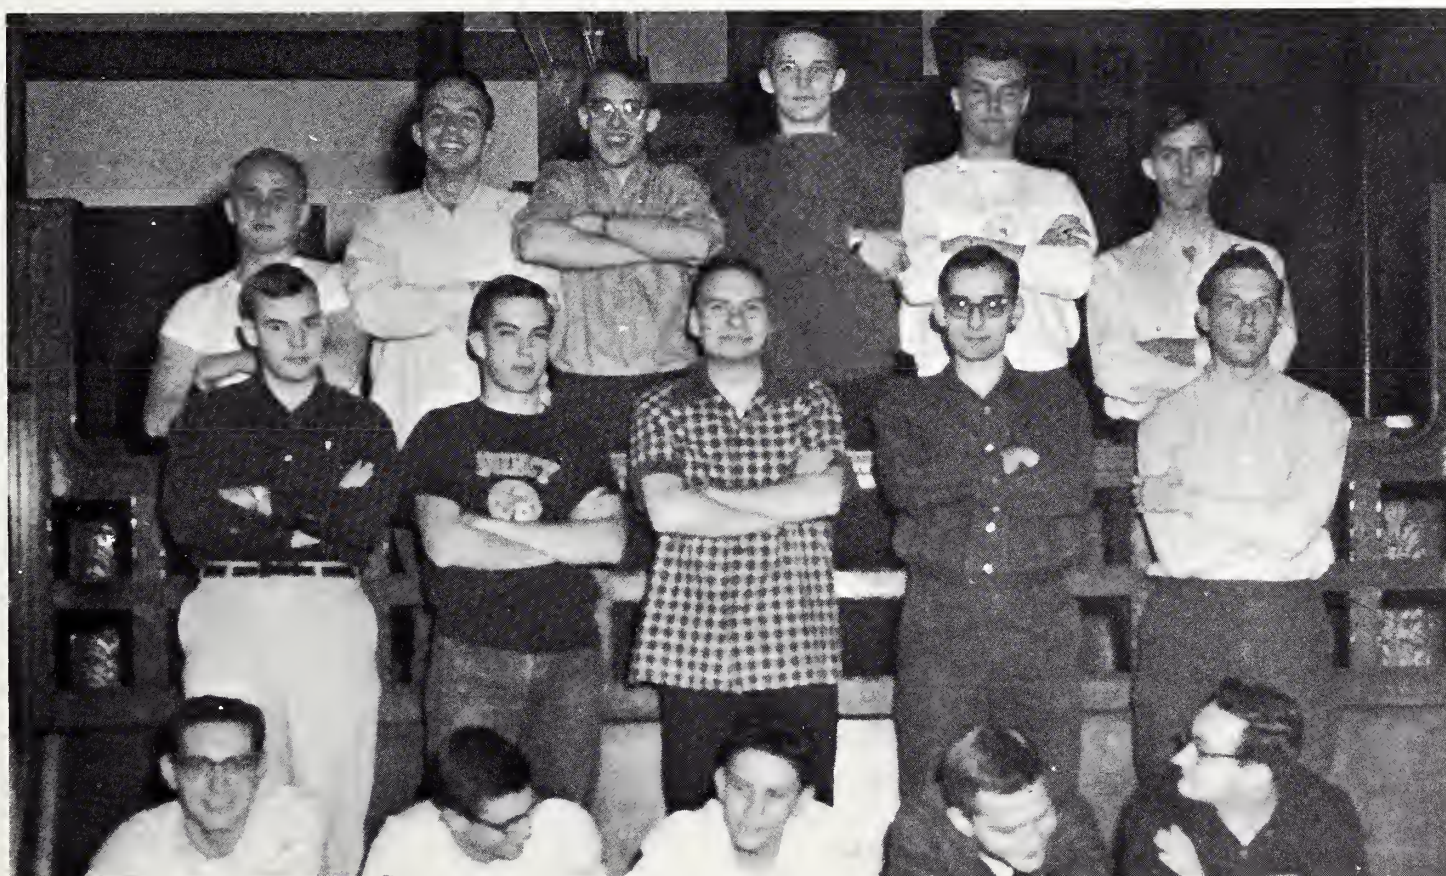

Mary Kay Vollmer, after a semester of practice is now ready to do a bang-up teaching job.

The Political Science club of Quincy college sought to interest students in international politics and its relation to each citizen and student in the United States.

Club projects such as a tour of Washington, D.C. arranged for students of Quincy College, were designed to give students opportunity and encouragement to further independent study of government.

The eminent political scientist, Dr. Kurt Von Schuschnigg was invited to stimulate student discussion and interest in the area of international affairs. A better understanding of political institutions of the United States and other countries was sought through direct student participation in government and politics in these activities.

President Katherine Rosich greeting former Austrian Prime Minister, Dr. Kurt Von Schuschnigg.

Young Republicans

The Young Republican club, now in its fifth year of existence on campus, continued to experience productive growth and development. One of its prime objectives was actively to encourage students in the fulfillment of their obligation to become creative, active, and well-informed citizens. It accomplished this by promoting an examination of political theory together with an active participation in practical politics.

The club is affiliated with the Illinois Young Republican College Federation, the Mid-West Federation, and the National Young Republicans. Prominent local and state Republicans often address the club at its monthly meetings. These meetings also serve as a foundation from which the club's political position of conservatism evolves through discussion and debate. Among its other projects, the club participated in state and national conventions and this past year published the Mid-West Review, the newsletter for the Mid-West College Federation.

The primary purpose of the Psychology Club has been to assist majors in the department while in school, and to promote an atmosphere of intellectual development generally. Essentially, the means used to accomplish this end have been movies, speakers and field trips.

The movies are generally on the order of a case history exemplifying a particular type of psychological problem. The speakers ranged from educators, to doctors, psychiatrists and psychologists. The field inspired the most interest, and, perhaps, provided the most benefit.

During each semester, the club members made a trip to state hospitals, rehabilitation clinics, and guidance or correctional centers. The emphasis in such trips was placed upon the discovery of the practical application and implementation of principles which the members studied.

The old, familiar walk in front of the college.

Our man behind the lens—Karl Paulitschek.

Behind the Lens

Once again during the year just past, our photographer was seen roving the campus, seeking visual recordings of good and bad moments of college life, especially as experienced by underclassmen.

On these pages, with malice toward none and charity toward all, he presents his second edition of "moments behind the lens."

William Hartrich, Stanley Kowalczyk, Thomas Roti and Andrew Bjornberg stopped for refreshments during a social function.

Michelle Cormier, Robert Stange and Catherine Lohman at one of the very popular spots in the college building.

Sandra Jordan liked the idea of quick communication.

Mary Ann Colangelo, Nicholas Costrino, Janette Neal, John Dudley and Marianne Wall in a typical main corridor pose.

Father Peter had a few minutes of conversation before the departure of Dr. Kurt Von Schuschnigg, who delivered a lecture to the students.

Jeffery Liautaud brought along his own record-player.

Janet Dittmeyer, Edna Lehr, Marilyn Hurlburt, Mrs. Irene Johnson, and Karen Schlottman in the elementary art room.

Richard Bockelman selected his week-end attire early.

Father Anselm Reckamp, O.F.M., just returned from the Bolivian missions after eighteen years, visited with students at his alma mater. Thomas Ehlman and Rosemary Thunder are here seen with the veteran missionary and professor.

Chi Rho servers Kathleen Furrie and Kay Bruneni helped in the Recognition Week luncheons.

Gary Clark, Michelle Cormier, Mariellen O'Brien, and Robert Meyer found a way to release tension between classes.

William Hanks and Glenn Jurgens welcomed the week-ends.

Cecilia Eytalis at the residence hall switchboard.

The sister students do much of their studying in the college library.

George Fischer snapped while serving John Lehnen and Theresa Hirschinger in the "underground hideaway."

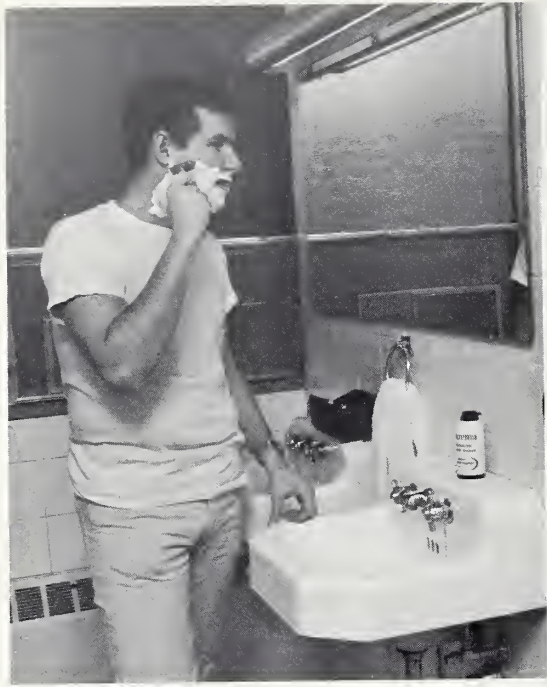

Sharon Pochron and Dennis Duesterhaus often selected their favorite tunes in the student union.

Mary Klingele, Barbara Lake, Carol Peachman, Susan Dunne and Kathy Nagy had many an evening snack in their residence hall.

William Scholten, John Stenger and Frances Dierkes frequently signed out books from the college library.

Joseph Hunt prepared for each new day like this.

Ray Struyk liked the idea of being able to get his laundry done right in Augustine hall.

Babette Wiscons, Donna Thibault, and Mary Doron examined some of Donna's handiwork.

Julie Gallagher, like the other coeds, had a mirror in her residence room.

Larry Morrison had his own typewriter, and found it to be a definite aid in doing assignments.

Margaret Northcraft absorbed in the world of books.

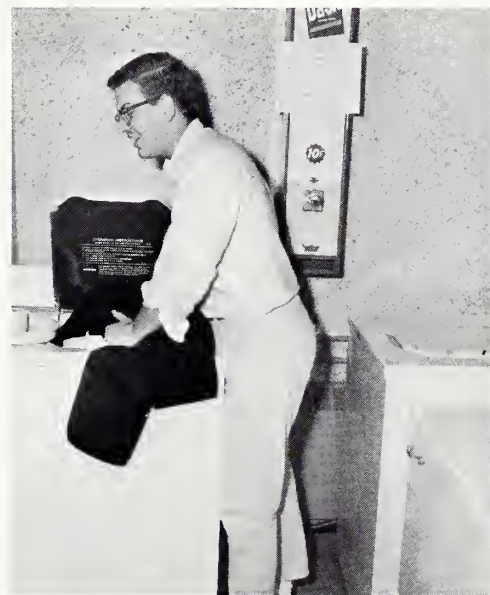

Michael Fiedler found it convenient to groom in his room.

Susan LaRenzie, Patricia Sheahen and Patricia McKay made their own music.

Edward Ross took advantage of the concession machines in Augustine Hall.

Joseph Havrilko quickly learned how to use the machines in the laundry room.

William Trudeau checked his mail-box frequently.

Robert Porter, Alice Callahan, Margaret Valenti and James Zang often used the social hall not to socialize.

Before . . . and after, as pointed out by Peter Satterthwaite.

Dances were sponsored throughout the year by different student groups.

Virginia Serb, Kathleen Furrie, and Dennis Kelly in the much-used college elevator.

The bulletin boards in the main building gave new daily information about student life.

Michael Bertani, after a long session in the classroom.

Charles McClain, Linda Render, Father Julian Woods, OFM, Denise Hanlon, and Carol Linkowski after Father Julian's address to the First Friday Club.

Casey Jones found using the telephone better than walking.

Philip Ekholm found from experience that it's easier to live and study in a clean room.

Susan Dunne and Kathleen Nagy developed their ping-pong talents in the basement of their residence hall.

Glenn Jurgens, John Maher, Carl Sporer and Raymond Shannon enjoyed TV in Augustine Hall.

Jeannine Paris, Margaret Williams, Constance Larabee, and Cecilia Kuzmickus practised in the hall before competing in the Union.

Father George managed to get FM music piped into the cafeteria during the day.

Father Tom's permanent art collection in the social hall drew the attention of Kathleen Duffy and Michael Golden.

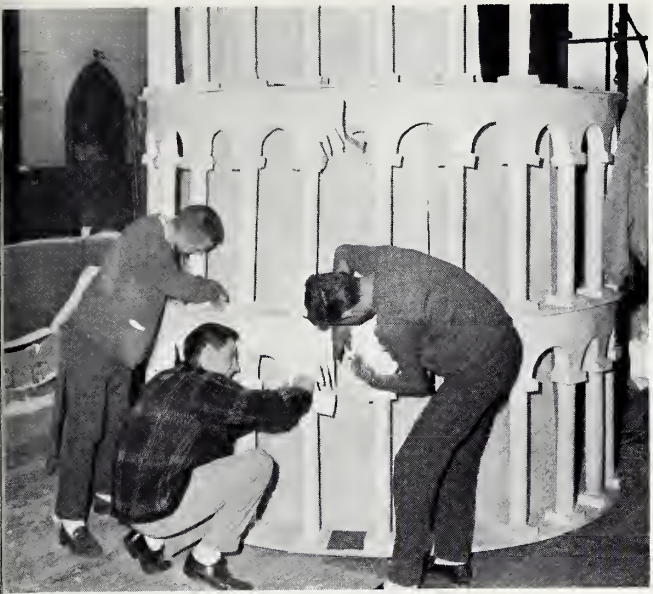

The men at Stillwell had their TV set in the main parlor.

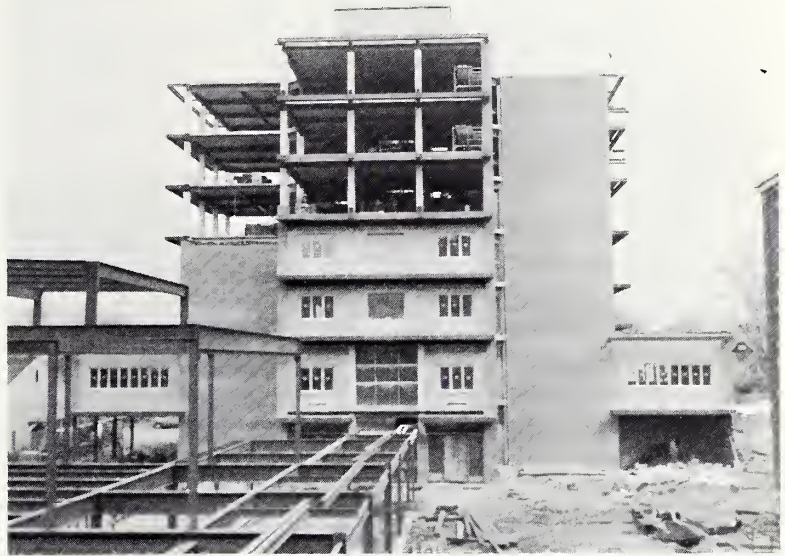

Anthony Castro was a firm believer in studying leisurely.

Dennis Woods liked good music in his room.

Constructing the decorations was half the fun of sponsoring big dances.

The view from classroom 110 for most of the second semester.

Kacy Colson and Robert Mele in the social hall.

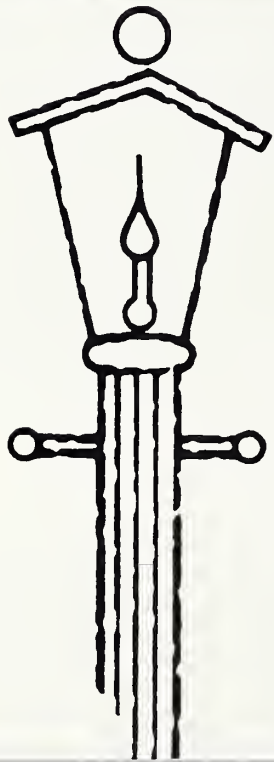

Joseph Hartmann, Susan Walsh and John Pfahler had the between-meals problem conquered.

The outstanding college achievements of these fifteen Quincy College students have been recognized by "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges."

They were chosen according to standards set up by the Student Senate and approved by a faculty committee. Eligibility requires a grade average of 3.0 for juniors and 2.5 for seniors plus a minimum number of activities points accumulated during at least four consecutive semesters at Quincy College.

These men and women have served the college well, in all fields of student endeavor.

Fr. Mel Doyle, O.F.M., dean of students and Miss Patricia McGrady, dean of women handled the details of the final selections.

Another group of Who's Who candidates. SITTING, 1 to r, Larry Lock, James Link and David Tucker. STANDING, Paul Brown, Thomas Ehlman, Charles Voss, Richard Ryan and Patrick Daly.

Joyce Van DeVeire delivered the acceptance talk in the name of all the candidates.

Students Showed Culinary Talents with Pancake Day and Bake Sale

Master chef Gerry Baier demonstrated his skill at the Circle K sponsored Pancake Day.

Pancakes served by Gerry Baier, Richard Ward and Thomas Justice were a novel change from regular fare.

Anthony Castro purchased home-made goods from Spanish Club members Kathleen Bergan, Elizabeth Meyer and Margaret Williams. The success of the bake sale, was proven by the speed with which the baked goods disappeared.

Quincy College Mourned President Kennedy's Death

As the rest of the world was torn apart with grief, Quincy College nursed its own private sorrow over President John F. Kennedy's assassination, intensified by the fact that he had addressed the Quincy College student body in 1959. Unbelieving was the word used to describe everyone's reaction. It seemed as if we had suddenly been catapulted back to Lincoln's time.

But perhaps this seemingly useless death will enable us to see more clearly the need for love in a world of hate, the need for tolerance in a world of prejudice and the need for virtue in a world of vice.

Anxious students watched television coverage of the President's funeral.

The contemporary jazz ensemble of Quincy College, selected for the semi-finals of the Oread Jazz festival at the University of Kansas.

Hugh Soebbing's dance band was a joy to hear, both at dances and at concerts.

Talents Developed Through Music

The music program of the college was a vital asset to the school and community through this past year. By concerts, operas, recitals and other performances, the students learned to appreciate the value of music as a contribution to our American culture.

James Brinkman's choral group performed at the corner-stone laying of the new Franciscan Seminary in Quincy.

The Chapel Choir did an admirable job during the year.

Father Gabriel enjoyed the musical talents of John Trost, Pamela Wozniak, Sharon Masat, and Janice May, with Barbara Hess at the piano.

Pamela Wozniak, Janice May, Kathleen Blazel and Sharon Masat entertained at luncheons in a spirit of generous service.

Margaret Doeseckle tried her skill at one of the carnival games as Joseph Hunt and Lucas Daniele looked on.

Gala Festivities Marked

The annual Mardi Gras at Quincy College began with a carnival Saturday afternoon, February 8th. That evening a costume dance was held in the gymnasium amid the surroundings of the gay and colorful decorations.

Charles Nelson operated the penny-pitching booth while Michael Crowe, Edward Matichek, Babette Wiscons, Virginia

Ronald Beckerle and Susan Walsh won the costume contest as "Pauline and Leuty."

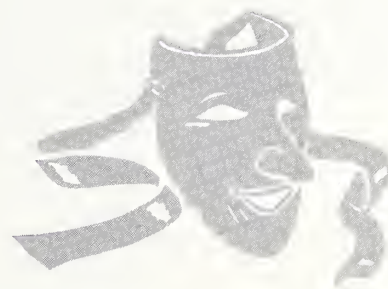

Mardi Gras Weekend

The celebration was sponsored by the Knights of Columbus and the student senate. Freddie Wayne and his orchestra highlighted an evening filled with excitement and fun.

Serb, Carol Schiola, Richard Powers, and Thomas Machiorletti tried their skill and luck.

John Pfahler and John de la Torre, alias "Sinbad and his girlfriend," entertained the masqueraders at the Mardi Gras Dance.

Donald Schonhoff, Mary Jo Kendall, Denise Hanlon, Karl Paulitschek, Robert Stange and Kathleen Blazel sat out a dance just to pose for the camera-man.

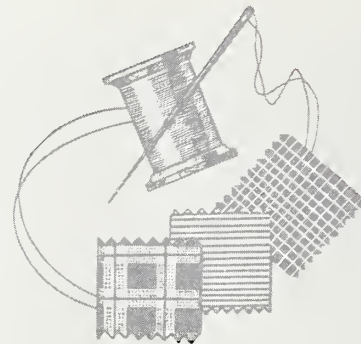

Co-eds Displayed Fashion Talents

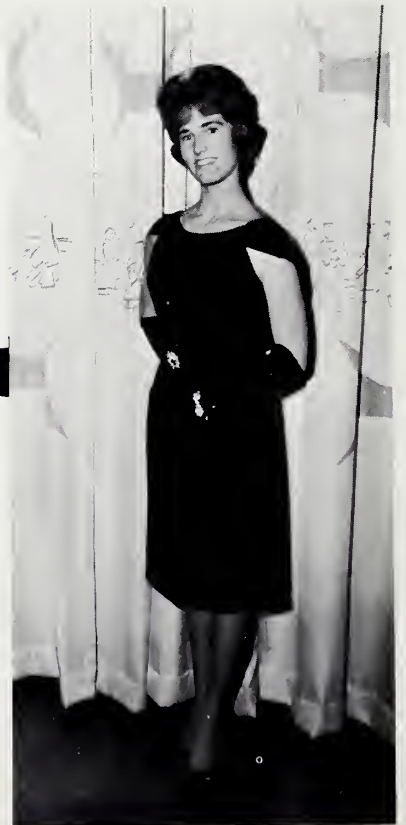

Participants anxiously awaited the judges' decision.

Quincy College was again invited to participate in Glamour magazine's annual contest to find the "Ten Best Dressed College Girls in America." On Sunday, March 1, the contest was held in the social hall.

The girls were judged by a committee consisting of faculty members, students, and Quincy merchandisers. The public was invited to attend the program.

Joan Bernbrock modeled her winning outfits: for Sunday wear, campus wear, and semi-formal wear.

Fred Schmalz, Susan LaRenzie and Robert Chew displayed an example of the optimistic spirit shown by the students at a pep rally.

KANSAS CITY,

After the decisive victory over Lewis College, the Hawks went to Kansas City to play in the NAIA tournament on March 9th. Three hundred Q.C. students followed the team to spur them on to victory. At left, cheerleaders Joan Bernbrock and Ruth Testin showed only a part of the enthusiasm shared by the other cheerleaders and the crowd.

WE CAME!

Cheerleaders, Ronald Tuholske and Dennis Galligani, together with Hawk mascot, Carol Schiola, amused the crowd with their antics.

The 1963-64 national tournament team, l to r, James Prow, Ed Hagenbaumer, Tom Brumleve, Michael Lach, Ken Davenport, Leo Binz, George Leonard, Sam Stampley, Dennis Trame, Dennis Kruse, Dewey Kalmer and Fred Curtis. Missing is John Runde, injured right before the Kansas City tournament.

Hawks Finish with Flourish

Sam Stampley is determined to hold that round ball.

Recognition Week

April 5-11, 1964

Quincy College hosted many local service clubs for luncheon meetings during the week.

Speakers, including Fathers Gabriel Brinkman and Ronin Hartke, addressed each club session. Father Pacific Hug also spoke each day.

Quincy College and the Quincy Chamber of Commerce joined in sponsoring the annual Quincy College Recognition Week. Special attention was focused on Quincy's assuming the role of the Franciscan "educational capital" of the Mid-West. During the week, the public was invited to visit classes.

New structures, such as the seven-story faculty residence building, are pictured above. On display for visitors was a model depicting a view of the Q.C. campus of the future.

Crowning of Queen Highlighted Fun of St. Patrick's Dance

On Saturday night, March 14, the Circle K club sponsored the annual St. Patrick's dance held in the Memorial gymnasium, with colorful Irish decorations lending atmosphere. The orchestra also managed to get into the mood, and furnished many Irish songs.

Kathleen Blazel, 1964 queen, was crowned by last year's queen Roseann Dreiling.

Mary Ann DeLio, Mary Catherine Lohman, Kathleen Blazel, Kathryn Bruneni, Anne Essig and Roseann Dreiling anxiously awaited the news of who was to fill the empty throne.

Students Gained First-Hand Information from Eastern Trip

While scores of college students headed Florida way for the Easter holidays, a group of 36 Quincy College students, under the joint sponsorship of the Political Science and Fine Arts Clubs, traveled to the nation's capitol for an educational expedition.

The group visited Arlington cemetery, Falls Church, Lincoln Memorial, Jefferson Memorial, Washington Monument, National Art Gallery. The travelers also attended religious services at the Franciscan monastery and the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception.

A private tour of the White House, a social call at the British embassy, a visit to the Federal Bureau of Investigation building, and a session in Congress were likewise included.

Considerable time was also allowed for personal preference visits.

Mr. John Evans, assistant professor of History and his aunt, Mrs. Nancy Shelly, accompanied the group.

Life on the bus was never dull.

Father Titus Ludes, former Quincy College dean, addressed the large crowd, taking as his theme, "Today's Educational Opportunities."

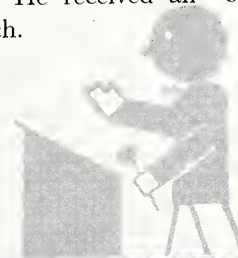

Students Joyce Van De Veire, J. Patrick Graham, Bart Scowley, Thomas Ehlman and Carol Sikora received honored awards for service to the college. Club officers Diane Peters and Linda Render are also pictured.

Many Awards Given at First Friday Club Banquet

The second annual awards dinner of the Quincy College First Friday Club was held April 20 at the Elks Club. Faculty members, Knights of Columbus, club officers and others received special recognition.

In his address, Father Titus told the guests: "Nothing is good enough if it is not your best." He received an "outstanding service award" following his speech.

Father Titus spoke with some of his former students after the dinner.

Trio of athletes have completed careers as Hawks and were given special recognition. Athletic director John Ortwerth, left, chats with

Leo Binz was presented the Mart Heinen trophy by Carol Schiola, president of the Physical Education club.

Hawk Athletes Honored

Leo Binz, senior basketball star, needed a trophy-bearer following the annual sports award program. He was presented the Mart Heinen Trophy for being the outstanding senior student-athlete, and a trophy as most valuable member of the basketball team. He also received a "Q" blanket, for a Hawk earning his fourth letter in a sport.

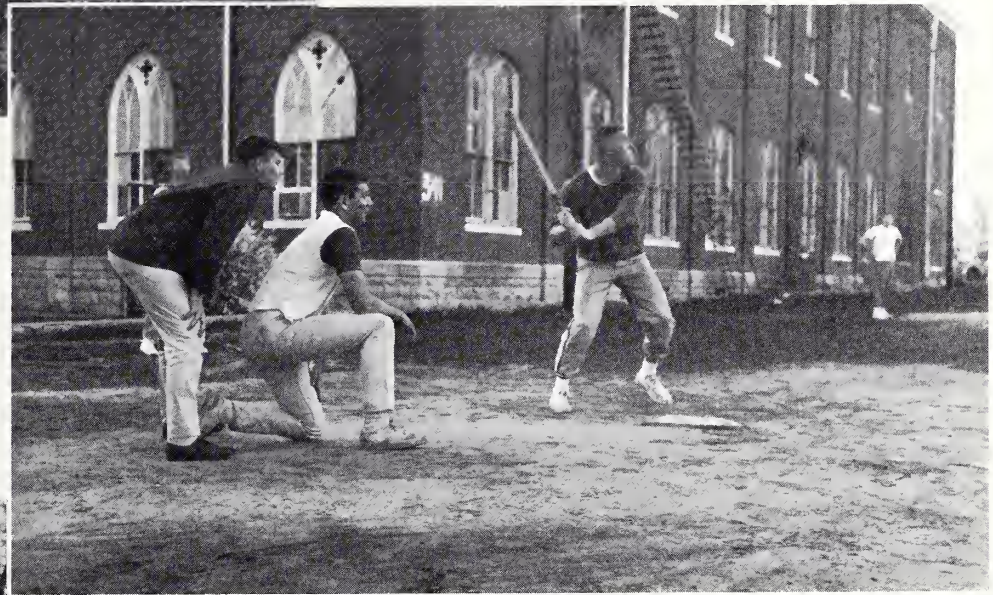

Leo Binz this past year established scoring and rebounding records, started 105 consecutive games after breaking into the lineup of his Freshman season. He received honorable mention on the N.A.I.A. All-American team and on the Catholic all-America squad. Leo also, by the way, received the ball with which he broke Ed Crenshaw's scoring record as a Hawk.

Also receiving special recognition were Tom Reagan, the only senior on the baseball team and George Leonard, the only other senior on the basketball squad.

Awards were given the cheerleaders by Miss Ann Hawk, the track and Cross-country teams by Mr. Tom Risch, the bowlers by Mr. Roger Francour, and the baseball players by Mr. David Costigan. Basketball letters were presented by Mr. John Ortwerth.

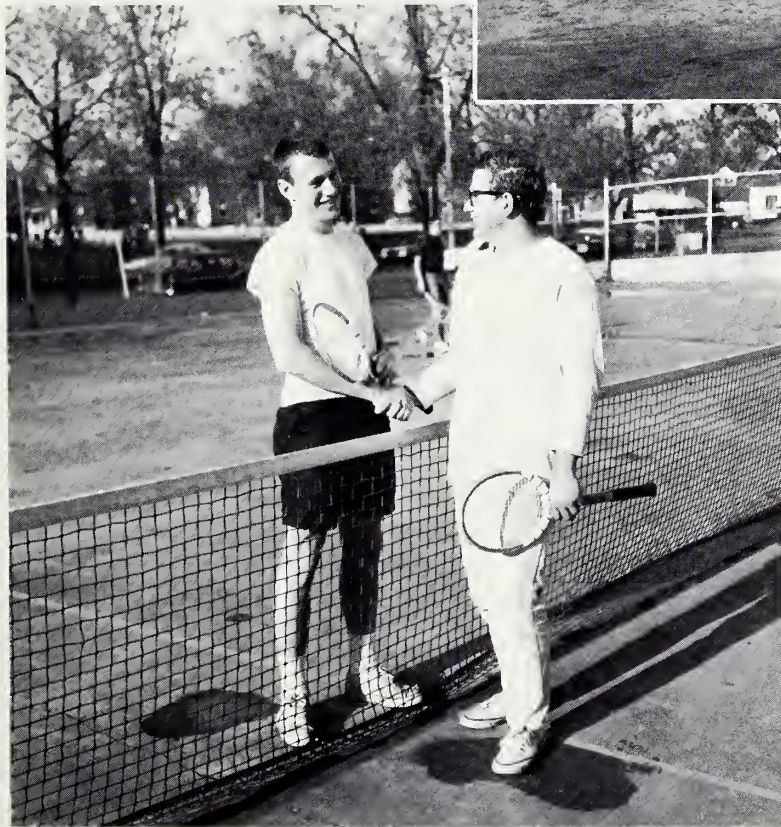

Fred Capilupo, William Mele, Matthew Gulisano and Robert Mele relaxed between innings. STANDING were James Bittle, Theodore Eilerman and William Keane.

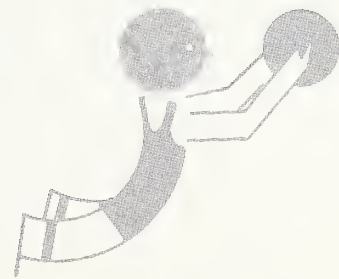

Wide Variety of Intramural Sports Encouraged Participation.

Football, basketball, baseball and tennis filled the men's schedule. The coeds formed teams to play basketball, volleyball, tennis and badminton. Not all sports were separated, however. Co-rec volleyball succeeded as never before, as all the students realized the value of physical fitness.

Umpire Patrick Daly peeked over Theodore Eilerman's shoulder as they awaited Earl Zastro's third strike.

Kenneth Husted and Joseph Havrilko shook hands before their tennis match, emphasizing the good sportsmanship found among the Q.C. intramural athletes.

Enjoying the Sunday morning breakfast were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ward, Mary Jo Lally, Ray May, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond May, Janice May, and Richard Ward.

Parents Changed Our Familiar Atmosphere for a Weekend April 24-26

Catherine McGinnis served punch to her parents at the tea held in Senior Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Render took time to visit the room of their daughter Linda during the hours for the dorms' "open house."

Displays in the hall such as this one drew visitors' attention.

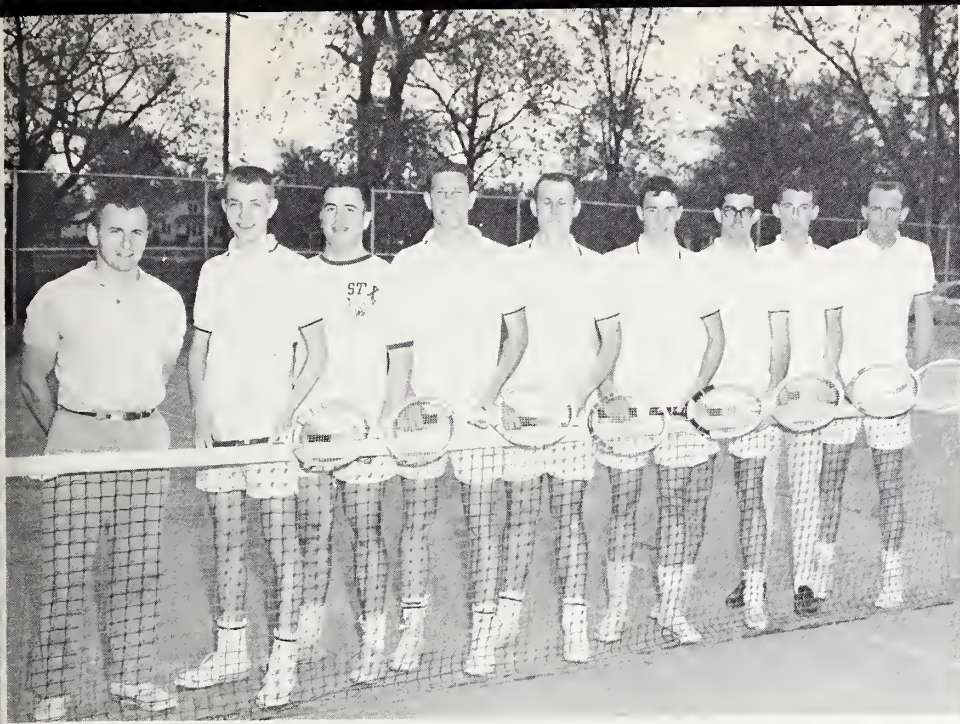

At the "Spring Serenade," David Frolick, Mr. and Mrs. Sikora and their daughter Carol chatted for a while with Father Gabriel.

Spring Sports Shaped Up Well

TENNIS

The Hawks tennis team had their finest season since the sport was started here as they finished the year with an 8—8 record. Highlight of the season was our first victory at Western Illinois in six years. John Ridder and James Knepler paced the squad, each posting an 11—6 individual record.

Coach Roger Francour, John Ridder, Robert Meyer, Thomas Brumleve, James Knepler, Carroll Howell, Dennis Kelly, Michael Lach, and John Runde.

TRACK

Inexperience was responsible for the one win and four losses of the track team. The squad was comprised of underclassmen who showed definite promise for the future. Richard Ward's javelin throwing and Robert LaCroix's distance running brought most of the points we scored, and presented a bright outlook for next year.

BOWLING

The Hawks won the state collegiate championship this year and were in the NAIA national tournament for the third year in a row. Even greater accomplishments lie ahead.

1 to r, FRONT, Coach Roger Francour, Robert Mele, Gerald Baier and Daniel Menke. REAR, John Hemmer, George Fischer, and George Ratajik.

Siebers, John Fox, Dennis Trame, Dennis Kruse and Coach David Costigan.

Hawks Hustled on Diamond

The Hawks finished the '64 season in a blaze of glory as they won their last seven games to wind up the campaign with a mark of 12 wins and 14 losses.

Two stellar pitching performances by Fred Curtis and Dennis Kruse helped the team to end the season with a double victory over Iowa Wesleyan College. Thomas Reagan, the only senior on the squad, finished his career with three hits out of four trips to the plate.

A lack of hitting coupled with a leaky defense were responsible for a mid-season tailspin prior to the garrison finish. The Southern Trip and the Round Robin Tournament added luster to an exciting season.

Sidelights on Season

Leading Pitcher—Dennis Kruse, 4—0.

Earned Run Average—Fred Curtis, 2.76

Leading Hitters—Duane Kalmer .379 Fred Curtis .326; Thomas Reagan .323; Craig Lambert .308.

Three Base Hits—Roger Sheridan, Duane Kalmer and Thomas Reagan, 3.

Home Runs—Craig Lambert and Dennis Kruse, 2.

Stolen Bases—Duane Kalmer and Roger Sheridan, 12.

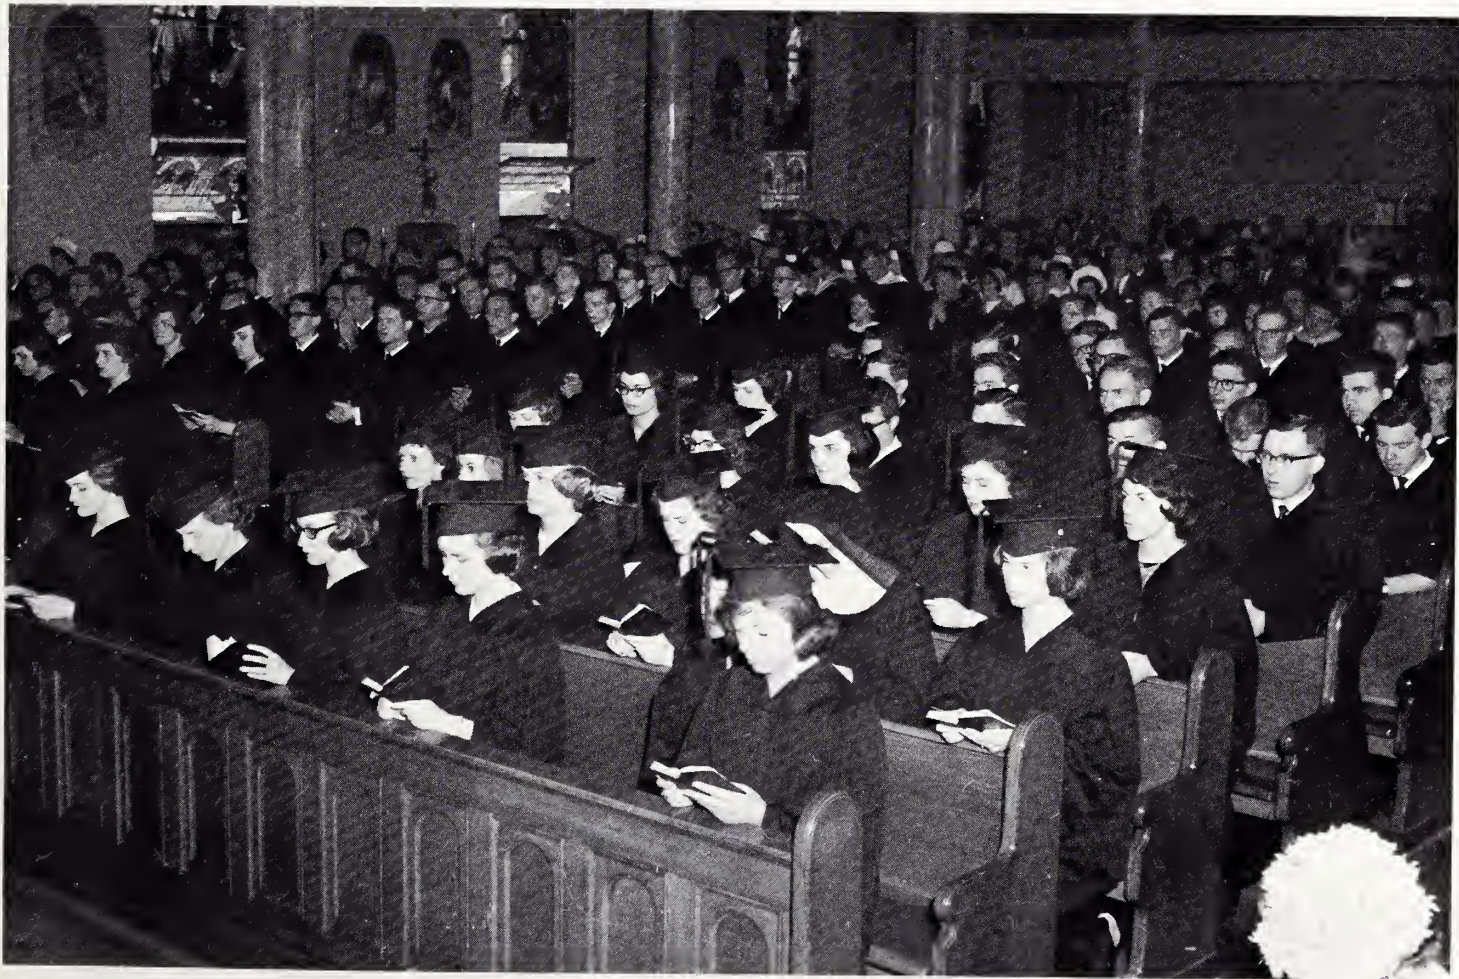

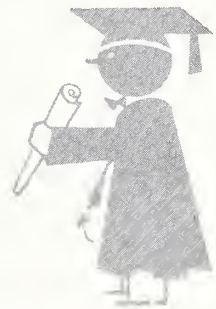

Total Runs—154 for Quincy, 139 for opposition.

Fr. Pacific Hug, O.F.M., was toastmaster at the senior banquet which was enjoyed by a record-breaking 460 guests.

Fitting Finale of Graduation

The baccalaureate High Mass was celebrated by Fr. Gabriel Brinkman, O.F.M., president, and attended by the graduates, faculty, and parents.

Robert W. Galvin, chairman of the Board and chief executive officer of Motorola, Inc., delivered the commencement address and received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

The climactic moment for over 140 graduate came with the conferring of the academic degree.

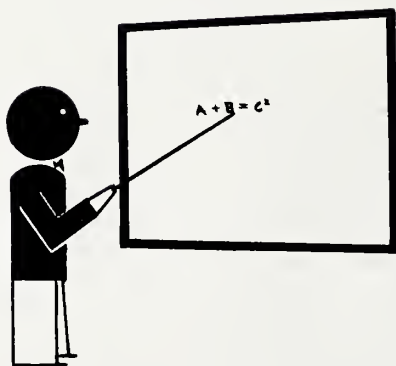

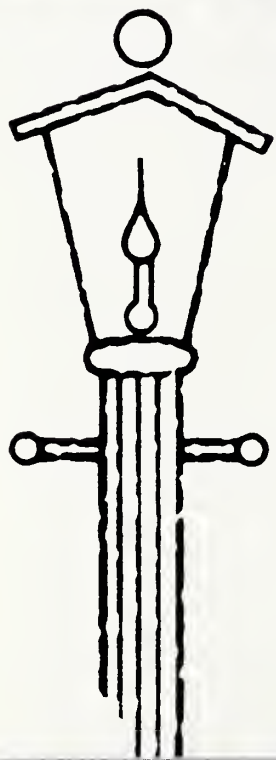

The last walk from the chapel to the gymnasium was solemn and impressive.

Henry Hughes and Diane Peters wore their best smiles after the Commencement exercises. Miss Peters was the class spokesman at the senior banquet.

Frank Gregorio and Bernice Weilbacher typified the happiness of the graduates, as the two posed for pictures long to be preserved in the family album.

Our pictorial review of the "wonderful year" is concluded. As we re-live the academic year, perhaps we can perceive the development of an educated person, in whom the reality of the world of ideas has become apparent.

Now challenges lie ahead that are to be met with maturity and forthrightness, new hills are to be climbed, new victories are to be won.

May the inspiration gained from our 1963-64 college experience add to our worth in the coming decades of our life.
